Brittany

Guess who's back?

Brittany Dimitryev worked 6 years with GSMW first as the Senior Volunteer Support Manager, then moved into the Director of Membership and Program role.

After a 3-year hiatus, Brittany is back with GSMW as the Chief Mission Development Officer, helping to co-create and execute the Council's strategic plan through hands-on operations and program development.

She is focused on extending our impact by growing membership and expanding program access and is also committed to boosting Girl Scout visibility and fostering positive, lasting goodwill throughout Montana and Wyoming.

Her favorite part about Girl Scouts is the sisterhood – watching volunteers come together and seeing girls develop extraordinary leadership through their achievements. She's inspired by the girls' leadership milestones and how they grow with our traditions and camp experiences.

During her previous time with GSMW, Brittany earned her Masters of Public Administration from Notre Dame de Namur University in 2018. She loves crafting and DIY including crochet, macrame, and trying new projects around the house, cooking and baking, and camping in the mountains with her husband.
